A HOT SUMMER NIGHT, IN A FAR OFF LAND

Doggy Hasher Down. On a sad note, before we begin, our thoughts are with Lilo and TinOpener who sadly have lost poor old Minx. She is now in the great dog-kennel in the sky having entertained us for years running like a greyhound, almost flying along with all four paws off the ground at once and successfully escaping the leash into the fields on many an occasion.

Okay, hands up, not my finest hour tonight as for some reason my 'recording' of events refuses to 'playback' so its all very much going to be in the eye of the beholder, i.e. not many words but lots of pictures!

Since many of our congregation are in the far-flung depths of ancient ruins, dappled olive groves and getting plastered on ouzo and metaxa, the rest of us were gathering on a wonderful sunny, balmy, hot Monday evening in the Packhorse Car Park.

Not just any car park but the one filling with Jaguars cars and the like, from by-gone eras..... a bit like a lot of us hashers really. Anyway, I digress. The balloon went up and what a lovely start to this 'summer' evening hash – hard to believe it's only April.

Quote of the Hash for today – well the only printable one that I heard – Flash Bang Wallop 'only comes when it's sunny' ahem, maybe that's why he's footloose and fancyfree??

The GM welcomed everyone including a returnee but I didn't catch the name, hopefully someone knows who it was? Then handed us over to the Hare who proceeded to basically tell us every blob was a check, there was a regroup and the requisite Beaver stop and also some mid-hash beer to be found.

And the walkers were given BROCHURES no less! No flimsy paper misspelt scrawling, but no expense spared, high resolution colour pics, historical insights etc etc etc. But it did have a very clear red dots on the show-the-way-trail picture.

The Re-group that didn't!

Wet wipe was very thoughtful though, (Note to other Hares please) a very considerate Hare who had a convenient convenience stop.

We all wondered what the EU Farm subsidies were for, well now we know, cultivating fields of porta loos!

At times the trail was very atmospheric too.

And at other times, very uplifting!

Is that the definition of 'getting it up'????? An unusual way to find one's Beaver? And he didn't spill a drop!

The trail though was very good, considering that Wet Wipe laid it all on his own, sterling job young man!

We looped round and through at least 3 golf courses (it felt like). Everywhere you turned there were hoards of chaps looking for their balls.

The bluebells in the woods though were amazing, what a fabulous trail through the woods with carpet after carpet of scented flowers, perfect. Though Motox and Foggy did have to complain, having arrived at the beer stop only to find 3 tiny bottles of beer and no bottle opener, bit of a boo-boo that one. And, despite Billy Liar thinking he had stolen a march on everyone, and getting lured into a private garden by thinking piles of ant powder were flour blobs from the trail, we all arrived safe and sound see below to sit back and enjoy a pleasant evening en pleine aire dans le Jardin avec the twinkling lumieres.
